

Move Up, Gentlemen--Don't Crowd! A Becoming Suit for Every One of You

A LOT OF "PUT-IT-OFFS" were in last week—one glance at the suit scenery—values so evident couldn't go amiss—and the doubling Thomases got busy at once. Jingling of silver commenced. Honest dollars and our suits began changing hands. Good clothes and thrifty men made fast friends. It was a brisk day—yesterday—in our mammoth clothing section. There's a suit for you here—why don't you come in and get it?

CHAMPION RIDERS OF THE WORLD ARE CHALLENGED

Harry Brennan of Sheridan, Wyo., and David Sparks of Dillon, Montana, Are to Meet at the Four-State Fair—Brennan Now in Ogden—He Has Held the World's Championship—Wonderful Exhibitions in Riding the Bucking Broncho Will Be Witnessed at Fair in Ogden.

Harry Brennan, the gentleman who won the second prize at Frontier's day at Cheyenne, Wyo., last week, for the championship of the bucking broncho riders of the world, has sent the following challenge to the Fair Officers of the Four-State Fair, challenging David Sparks of Dillon, Montana, to ride for the championship of the Four States:

"David Sparks, Dillon, Mont.—Dear Sir: I have seen your announcement and am willing to ride against any one on bucking chonchoes for the Four-State Championship at the Ogden grounds, Sept. 6th to 11th. I hereby accept such challenge. I will be at the Ogden grounds on Sept. 6th at 2 p. m. ready to ride any horse that may be furnished at that time for the Four-State championship, and you to do the same. We will flip nickels for first choice out of the bunch of horses, and we will repeat this every day until the close of the Four-State Fair. I want the judges to be disinterested persons and prefer that the Governor of Utah be appointed judge. Very truly yours, (Signed) HARRY BRENNAN."

There are many people judges of riding who say that Mr. Brennan was entitled to the world's championship at Cheyenne last week instead of the second highest award. Mr. Craigton Danks, who won the world's championship at Cheyenne, will have to come to the Ogden fair and defend his title or surrender it. It is said that he admitted that Harry Brennan was his superior and that he would not ride against him again. In that event he will lose the world's championship during the Four-State Fair at Ogden, Utah.

The Wild West Show at Ogden is beginning to be interesting. When Harry Brennan, the winner of the second award in the world's championship at Cheyenne, challenges David Sparks, the champion rider of Oregon and Montana, and invites the world's champion himself to meet him on the Ogden grounds, it is fair to say that Ogden will pull off the greatest horse bucking contest ever witnessed on the continent.

Mrs. Bernie St. Clair has received the challenge of Mrs. B. Sparks of Dillon, Mont., to ride for the woman's championship of the world. The Cheyenne papers published the challenge and it created no end of excitement in Cheyenne during the recent Frontier Day's contest. It is announced that Mrs. St. Clair will accept the challenge.

The Cheyenne Tribune, describing the champion broncho riding contest on August 21st, says:

Harry Brennan, though awarded second prize, was really the favorite. He rode in one contest without boots. The Tribune's account of the riding follows:

CLAYTON DANKS—World's champion. HARRY BRENNAN—Second. SAM SCOVILLE—Third. ED M'NURLIN—Fourth. S. P. CARTER—Fifth. DICK STANLEY—Sixth.

Thus ended the bucking contest at Frontier park today for the world's championship. Clayton Danks, the accredited champion, rode Steamboat, which horse did not come up to his usual record for bad acting, and when the decision of the judges was announced, the crowd shouted their disapproval of their decision in loud yells of "Rotten," "Steal," "Robbery," and in loud hisses.

There were eight contestants for the world's championship honors, and all were good riders, but the horses did not seem to be in the right spirit for bad work, and the crowds were somewhat disappointed, especially so in the decision of the judges.

Danks won the much-coveted honor, after a hard ride on Steamboat, the famous old outlaw, in this afternoon's finals.

Brennan Rides Without Boots. Harry Brennan, ex-champion, drew Beaver, and in order to make a sensational ride, agreed to ride without his boots. However, put up the hardest bucking of the day, and for several minutes gave Brennan a most terrible shaking. Brennan clung on with apparent ease while the horse went through a series of side bucks and stiff legged pitches. The crowd went wild with enthusiasm, shouting, "Hurrah for Brennan." It looked like honors for Brennan, the Sheridan favorite.

in time to handle the beet crop of next year. When built, this factory will be among the largest sugar making plants in the United States and it will cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. Harlem is a small town near the Crow Indian reservation and Mr. Eccles and the associated with him in the enterprise have negotiated with the government for the assistance of the Indians of the reservation in the raising of beets for the factory. The lands of the reservation near the site of the factory are very rich and well watered and it is said they will yield an abundant crop of sugar beets.

ECCLES AND ROLAPP TO MEET

CONFERENCE WILL BE HELD IN MONTANA, WEDNESDAY.

Judge Has Just Returned From Europe—Building of Big Beet Sugar Factory at Harlem.

David Eccles, president of the Amalgamated Sugar company, and his son, L. R. Eccles, have gone to Harlem, Montana, to attend to business matters connected with the contemplated construction of a large sugar factory at that place.

Mr. Eccles and his son will meet Judge H. H. Rolapp at Harlem next Wednesday, the latter being on his way home from a European trip of a number of months.

It is stated at the local office that the object of the trip to Montana by the Eccleses and the conference with Mr. Rolapp, is to definitely decide upon the site for the sugar factory.

Mr. Eccles and associates have had in mind the building of a large and modern sugar plant at Harlem for a year past and it is understood that they have now definitely decided to begin construction work. An effort will be made to complete the building

JOHN M. MILLS, Superintendent.

OTTO BASSETT IS HELD WITH BAIL FIXED AT $500

R. S. Loucks, merchant; James Golding, vagrant, and Wm. Murphy, merchant, each were given "ten days or $10" at the police court hearing this morning. The three were sent to the city jail boarding house because of default in the payment of the $10.

The case of assault, wherein the city charged James Graham and John Coolen with that offense, were dismissed and the defendants discharged. The complaining witnesses did not appear.

M. J. Young pleaded not guilty to the charge of carrying concealed weapons. Detective Pender said he had arrested him in the M. & M. saloon and taken from his hip pocket an ugly looking revolver which the detective presented to the court as mute evidence. Mr. Pender also stated that Young had fired a shot while in the railroad yards a short time before his arrest.

In explanation of his having the gun in his possession, the defendant stated that he had taken it from his friend who had gotten into a dispute with a party and Young was afraid the man would use it. He also said that he had not seen his friend up to the time of the arrest and hence had not had the opportunity of returning it to him. He said it was the first gun he had in all his life, and that he had discharged it on the depot grounds because he did not know how to handle it.

The case was continued until tomorrow for further testimony. Otto Bassett, charged with the robbery of Richard Morrissey last Friday night was formally charged with the crime and his bail fixed at $500. The time for the preliminary hearing will be decided upon by the county attorney.
